

COOKING AREA

Suzannah felt that a range would look too bulky, so she chose two single ovens and a gas-on-glass hob, both by Miele. The red Silestone worktop continues as an upstand, which is topped with a border of cracked glass. Above, the toughened glass splashback, supplied by Colliers, has been back-painted with Dulux's lvory Clouds to match the walls

TAP AND SINK

The chrome Pilatus PowerStream tap by Franke has a pull-out spray that is useful for washing vegetables at the Bolero sink. A lever at the top allows the flow to be easily controlled

SUZANNAH AND DAVID BARNES LIVE IN A DETACHED HOUSE IN SURREY

WITH THEIR CHILDREN, REBECCA, 24, ADAM, 22, AND SEAN, 20, AND TWO DOGS

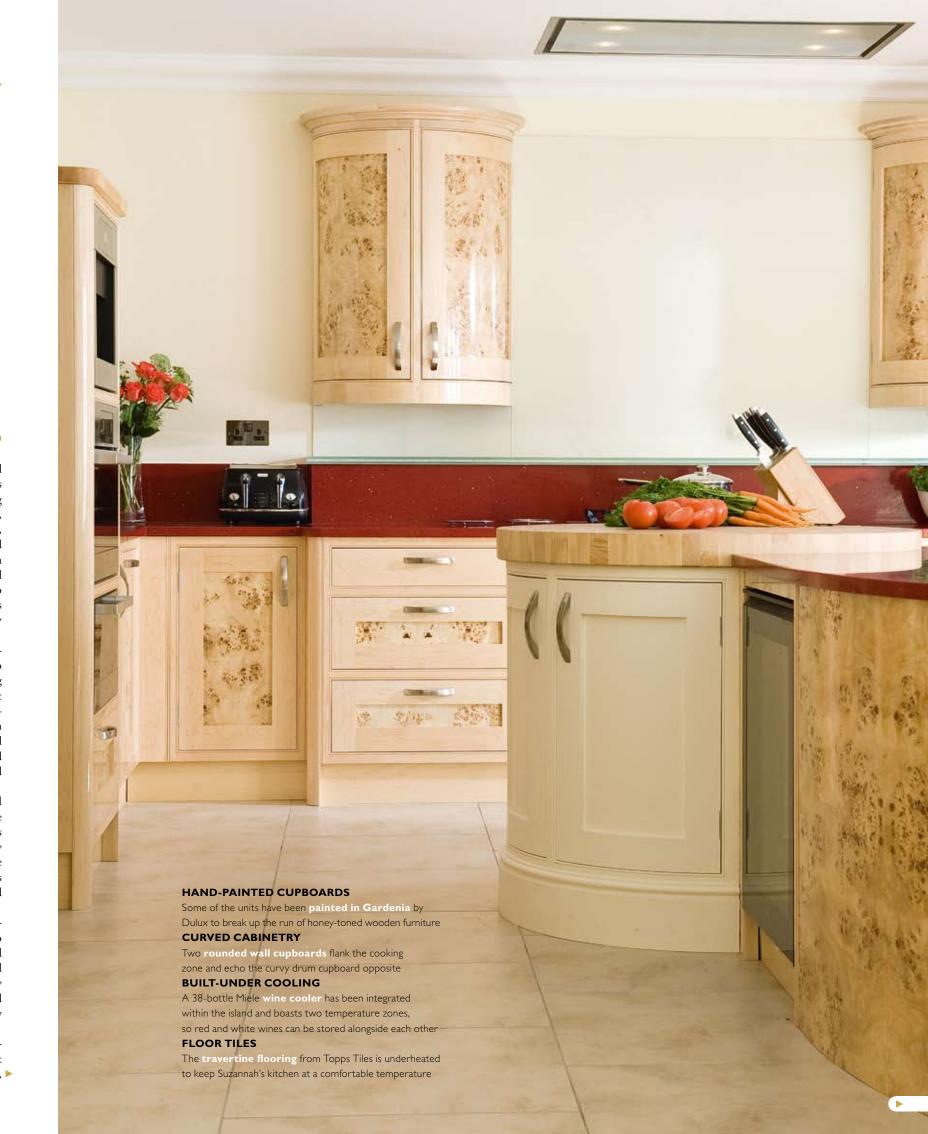

Suzannah Barnes and her husband David knew almost anything was possible when they began thinking about their new kitchen. The couple, who run their own plumbing business, were building their East Grinstead home from scratch and had allocated a generous space for the kitchen. 'We had a blank canvas and it took us a while to find a look we were happy with,' says Suzannah. 'Fortunately, we had plenty of time while the house was built.'

Suzannah trawled through magazines and visited kitchen showrooms to gather ideas but failed to find anything that ticked all her boxes. 'Although it was brand new, the house was traditional in style, so I wanted a modern kitchen with a warm, friendly feel and nothing clinical,' she explains. 'I wanted rounded curves, a big island unit and up-to-the-minute appliances.'

It was only when she and David visited Colliers in Worthing that the vision really started to take shape, as Suzannah homed in on its pale, glossy maple and burr poplar cabinetry. 'The wood gave the warm, classic feel I was after and the soft corners and lacquered finish were very appealing,' she says.

The couple talked over their requirements with designer Jason Collier, who then drew up plans for a central island flanked by a combination of curved wood and painted units. 'Jason really understood what we were after and we loved his ideas as soon as we saw them,' smiles Suzannah.

Jason suggested integrating appliances, so that they wouldn't divert attention from the cabinetry's smooth, elegant lines and the delicate patterning of the wood. Suzannah's wish list, which included two built-in ovens, a combination microwave, coffee machine and plenty of fridge space, was compiled with maximum flexibility in mind. 'Sometimes there's just David and me, and other times, it's more like feeding an army!' she laughs. 'The boys use the microwave, too, because they can quickly heat up something for themselves.'

'OUR DOGS LOVE THE STABLE-STYLE DOOR. IT CONNECTS TO THE UTILITY, WHERE THEY'RE KEPT, SO THEY CAN SEE AND HEAR US IN THE KITCHEN'

For ease of use, Suzannah settled on mainly Miele appliances but struggled when it came to choosing an extractor. She was concerned that any structure above the hob would spoil the effect of the flanking wall cabinets. Fortunately, Jason came to the rescue, sourcing a powerful extractor that could be set into the ceiling. 'Even though it's high up, it's really effective,' says Suzannah.

With decisions taken on the furniture and appliances, Suzannah turned her attention to the worksurfaces. 'The room was going to be fairly neutral, but I didn't want it to end up looking bland,' she recalls. After much research, Suzannah opted for bold scarlet composite worktops with a semi-opaque cracked glass table at the end of the island. 'Red might not be everyone's choice but it looks fantastic and we love it,' says Suzannah. 'We don't intend to move for a long time, so we decided to go for exactly what we wanted.'

APPLIANCE TOWER

'The coffee machine was my best buy,' smiles Suzannah. 'It's heaven! We can enjoy hot chocolate or milk as well as different types of coffee'

GLASS WORKSURFACE

Suzannah spotted a small sample of the cracked glass in Colliers's showroom and felt it would be perfect for the breakfast bar. It creates a distinctive feature and is tough and practical
